CUSTOMER DATA COLLECTION

ABSTRACT

5

10

A method includes displaying a representation of a customizable merchandise item on a marketing screen, the screen having at least one response field for customer data and at least one response field for a customization option, receiving selection data from the customer, the selection data usable for manufacturing the item, updating the displayed representation based on the selection data and receiving a customer response, the response representing customer data.